Overtime and Shoot-out Procedures

Overtime Procedure: If at the end of three regular stop-time periods of play, the score is tied, a five minute stop-time overtime period will follow immediately. The team that scores first wins the game (Sudden Death). If at the conclusion of regular play, there is insufficient ice time left to complete an overtime period, the Shoot-out will begin immediately and will be the sole determination of the game winner. Also, there will be no overtime in consolation games.

Shoot-out Procedure: Prior to the beginning of the game, coaches from both teams will submit the names of ten players. The first FIVE players on both lists will alternately shoot on the opposing goaltender in penalty-shot fashion using USA Hockey rules. A coin flip will determine which team shoots first. One point will be awarded for each goal scored. Once the first set of five players from each team has shot, the score is tallied. If either team has a higher score, that team wins the game. Otherwise, the 6th player from both teams will shoot. From this point, if the score is still tied, the 7th player from each team will shoot, etc. If after the 10th round, a winner still has not been determined, then the remaining players left on both benches (not listed in the first 10) will shoot until a winner is declared or the lesser of two rosters is exhausted. At the point where one team's bench has been exhausted, the original list of 10 players are repeated with the score tallied after each set of two players (one from each team). This continues until a winner is found.

Goaltenders: Goaltenders who are goaltending at the time of the shoot-out are ineligible to shoot. If she is one of the top 10 listed, all numbers behind her on that team move up one notch. Back-up goaltenders may participate in the shooting but only after removing the goaltender's pads.
